Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Saturday 25 Dec 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Rain moving north; turning to snow, mainly hills northern UK.

This Evening and Tonight:
Rain, some heavy, across southern and western parts of England and across Wales and Northern Ireland. The rain turning to snow across parts of northern England and Scotland overnight. Heavy showers in southwest later. Frost in north, mild in south.

Sunday:
Rain and mainly hill snow across northern England and Scotland easing from the south. Further rain or showers, some heavy following north across southern and central areas.

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Generally rather cloudy, with rain at times for many areas, though some sunny spells are also likely in places. Windy on Wednesday with some heavy rain moving east. Mild everywhere.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.